DAWN OF 1928 MARKS END OF ONE PERIOD CANADA'S HISTORY

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Premier King has issued the following New Year's message: "The dawn of 1928 has a special significance for Canada. It marks the close of one period in our history and the beginning of another. Behind us lie sixty years of unified effort. In this time we have built steadily upon the foundations laid at Confederation and have extended the boundaries of our dominion from sea to sea. Forty years hence many new living will join in the commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of Confederation. The happiness of that day will depend in large measure upon our labors in the new year and in succeeding years.

"As a result of the celebrations of the past year, we understand more clearly than before the greatness of the task of building a Canadian Kiwanian Rev. McQueen, who is leaving for Calgary, advised himself of the opportunity to say goodbye to the members and wished the club every success for the future.

The New Year's dance held on Monday evening under the auspices of the B.O.E. was one of the most successful held this season. There was a large crowd, and the music was furnished by the Moonbeams.

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Stevenson regret to hear that it was necessary for their daughter, Margaret, to undergo an operation for ear trouble a few days ago. The operation was successfully performed at Calgary by a specialist.

Mr. A. J. Ingram visited Edmonton on Monday, 17th, to attend to business. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, and they were all very comfortable.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lawson who have been very highly esteemed residents of Wetaskiwin for a number of years, left on Saturday morning last for Swift Current, Sask., where they will make their home. Their host of friends deeply regret their departure, but all join in wishing them every success for the future.

The handsome residence of R. R. Cleland was totally destroyed by fire on New Year's eve, the fire starting about midnight. The cause is unknown, as it appears to have broken out upstairs, and some distance from the pipes. It was one of the finest homes in the Wetaskiwin district, and the loss will be very heavy as it was not fully insured.

The annual dance under the auspices of Wetaskiwin Lodge A.F. & A.M. held on Wednesday evening of last week was a decided success, and was never before; the successes of exhibitors of the products of the farm reflected credit alike upon themselves and the community; the successful operations of co-operative marketing systems show the farmer ready and able to help himself in solving his problems, and the return to stability of public finances, whether provincial or federal, indicates the general progress and shows the result of sane and careful policies.

The celebration of the Jubilee of Confederation on sets out in high relief the prevailing loyalty to Canadian ideals; and shows a Canadianism not confined to any province or any section.

The good results already achieved, and the possibilities offered by this province to settlers of the right type cannot fail to attract in the near future a goodly number of immigrants; and there is good hope that the process of development, interrupted in 1914, will be resumed.

What has already been won has been at the expense of resource and labor, and God willing, by persevering in those means, the people of Alberta may confidently look forward to achieving greater prosperity and happiness in the coming years.

SEDGEWICK GARAGE BURNS TO GROUND

Sedgewick, Jan. 3.—Fire completely destroyed Anderson's garage at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The fire started in the back of the garage in a blacksmith shop. The blacksmith had started a fire in the stove and had left to get the morning mail. The fire was first noticed by neighbors who sent in an alarm but it had gained such a headway that nothing could be done to save the building or contents. These were only partially insured. The cars and a truck were destroyed.

MR. LAWSON FAREWELLED BY THE SESSION

The Elders of the First United Church and their wives assembled at the Manse on Friday, December 30, for a social evening and to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawson, who are leaving Wetaskiwin to make their home in Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

Mr. Lawson was a member of the Session of the Presbyterian Church and on the consummation of Union continued a member of the Session of the United Church. As an elder and citizen, Mr. Lawson's influence was always found on the right side and in many ways he helped greatly the church and social work of Wetaskiwin. Naturally modest and retiring in manner, his goodwill and best work was most in evidence behind the screen and away from public view.

The Session presented Mr. Lawson with a "token of friendship" and an address, expressing their appreciation of his congenial fellowship, wise counsel and timely assistance in the work and worship of the congregation, their regret at his departure and their prayer that Heaven's choicest blessing may be with him and his wife and family throughout life.

CONVENTION PLANS RAPIDLY ADVANCED

Preparations are being rapidly advanced for the twentieth annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta and the United Farm Women of Alberta, which is previously announced will be held in the Central United Church, Calgary, January 15-20. The forecast of officials is that the convention will be the best attended within recent years.

The special committee appointed in connection with resolutions, are proceeding with the work of consolidation. This saves much valuable time during the convention as frequently quite half a dozen resolutions are received on the same subject.

One of the outstanding features of the resolutions so far received is that there is nothing in any of them that would tend to embarrass the provincial government. These resolutions are of a very different type to those presented before the Farmer government came into office.

Arrangements have been made that whenever any point is raised dealing with government matters that a member of the cabinet will be present to answer any questions. There is a possibility that provincial and Federal issues affecting the interests of farmers will appear prominently in many of the discussions during the convention.—Edmonton Journal.

THE NEW YEAR

The New Year will be a repetition of old experiences, a re-enforcement of old laws, a reaffirmation of another common saying which is that human nature changes. Little and human relationships are much the same today as they were when the first philosophical writer first set his chin to work on the stone tablets whereon were written the observations and records of that far-off time when the human race first began to discover the antiquity of the planet and the unswerving laws that govern it. We enter upon the New Year, to be sure, but in it we shall be responsive to the same forces as heretofore. We will be rewarded as we put ourselves into harmony with divine statutes and punished as we disregard them. There are but two lamps by which our feet may be guided, those of experience and conscience. If we profit by one and hearken to the other, we shall avoid many of the pitfalls that lie ahead; the same old pitfalls, in the same old places and hidden in the same old manner. If we play the game in accord with the rules laid down by that "still small warning voice within," we shall escape the old retributions for the same old errors that men and women have been making for thousands of years.

LOOKING BACKWARD
OVER THE PAST YEAR

The Dominion's year of Diamond Jubilee will go down in history as one of the most notable and prosperous in her annals. The jubilee celebrations on July 1, 2 and 3 were nation-wide and evoked a spirit of patriotic pride in the Dominion, its fathers and its achievements that demonstrated that, no matter what surface indications may sometimes portend, there is from Atlantic to Pacific a genuine love for the Land of the Maple Leaf. The chiming of the new carillon in the Peace Tower at Ottawa reached from coast to coast and even across the Atlantic, and their message served but to add to the great national significance of the celebrations. Peace and good differences were forgotten; political divisions ceased to exist; the people of Canada were united as one in their rejoicing at what had been accomplished in a scant 60 years and determined to build well upon the foundations laid by those who have passed on.

Added importance to the diamond jubilee was given by a visit from the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, who were accompanied by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Great Britain, and his helpmeet wife.

The two princes spent part of their time on the E.P. ranch in Alberta. Everywhere they went they were given illustrations of the people's affection for them. Especially was this the case where their royal highnesses met the elder prince's comrades of the war. At Toronto, Winnipeg and Calgary there were enormous parades of veterans to see and cheer the soldier prince and his sailor brother. At Toronto 15,000 soldiers and their families stood for hours in "patriotic" rain to witness the prince, producing a demonstration which could be hardly equalled anywhere else in the empire.

An international touch was given to the visit of the princes and the British premier by their participation in the consecration ceremonies of the Peace bridge over the Niagara river on Sunday, August 7. The ties of amity which unite the two great English-speaking nations were bound the more tightly by the impressive, yet simple ceremonies which marked the occasion.

On Sept. 15 a compliment was paid Canada by the dominion being elected a member of the League of Nations for three years. The first delegate was Hon. Raoul Dandurand, who was in 1925 the chairman of the league.

Financially and commercially, the year was one of great progress and prosperity. A bumper crop in the west was somewhat damaged by bad weather in the fall, yet the result was such as to send through the whole business and industrial community an electrifying influence which promises to make 1928 even more prosperous than the year of diamond jubilee.

"LOVE THY NEIGHBOR AS THYSELF"

Talking about Christmas goodwill—one minister asked his congregation how long it was since they had read the sermon on the mount. Several did that night for the first time since they left Sunday school.

Then comes the thought, why can't the spirit of Christmas prompt our acts for 365 days of every year? "Heavens man, you'd ruin business," says the rank materialist.

"All right," says the idealist, "show me any permanent business success which has succeeded by any other principle than the one of fair dealing—or if you will 'loving your neighbor as yourself.'"

Divorce isn't half so serious a problem as some others! Marriage for instance—might be suggested as a subject for study—solve the difficulties of matrimony and there won't be any divorce evil—and this idea was contributed by a bachelor!

Most readers (after the holidays) will agree with the bankers that it's a good plan to save a dollar now and then. However, there's a whole new year ahead.

Every authority tells us we are face to face with prosperity. But, we must remember our manners and not expect to make the most of a lifetime from the entree served by 1928.

Which man brings us back to business. May yours be happy and prosperous during 1928.—Exchange.

IRISH POLICE AND SINN FEIN
To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir:
Kindly permit me space in your valuable paper to open a debate on to show what the Royal Irish Constabulary as a Police Force were. From propaganda which has been spread throughout Canada and other foreign countries during Irish hostilities has got, no doubt, lot of sympathy for Ireland, which she would never have got only for their generous supply of propaganda. I presume it was sent to Wetaskiwin district from 401, Power Building, Montreal. According to some of this propaganda the R.I.C. were traitors to their country because they did not join the Sinn Feiners. Again my opponent says Canada is much a better country than Ireland. But why did he not defend Canada in the World War? Why did he not go back to Erin and give the Sinn Feiners a hand to get England and the R.I.C. out of it? Who were the R.I.C.? You don't know! I'll tell you. The R.I.C. were organized on their existing semi-military basis in 1837. Their unwavering fidelity and loyalty to the government has been proverbial. Successive governments and statesmen, both in and out of parliament, and the press, have vied with each other on their praises of the force. Their high traditions of valour, discipline and moral courage have always attracted to their ranks men of character, education and ability, recruited from amongst the best elements of Irish life, which made the R.I.C. what they had ever been regarded, the premier police force of the world. During the late European war a large percentage of officers and men flocked to the colour and numbers have sealed with their blood the flag of England to show their loyalty to their King and country. There is not on history a police force who went through the same trials as the R.I.C. I should like to forget the unpleasant history, but will merely record a few facts. 725 were killed, 425 wounded, the remainder having incurred the bitterest animosity of the radicals among their fellow countrymen. They rejoiced at the termination of the aged long feud between England and Ireland. They felt they were entitled to their share in the fruits of peace. But according to Article 10 of the Peace Treaty of 1921, the R.I.C. were to pass over to the control of the Irish Free State, with the exception of Englishmen who were temporary members of the force. The R.I.C. felt that that would be unfair to them and demanded disbandment before change of government, which was granted. If the R.I.C. were as bad as my opponent mentioned, why did the late Michael Collins want them to turn over and serve the Free State? Simply because the able soldier and statesman knew it would be hard to find a substitute for the R.I.C. and today they have a very poor substitute found for them. The R.I.C. had six months training, had to pass in drill and police duty, and have an excellent character before becoming a member of the force, and was on probation for one year. Who was Griffith and Collins and some more great Sinn Fein men of Ireland? They were office seekers and sold Ireland in 1921 for big jobs. They are dead today. Who shot them? At least Collins. Was it R.I.C.? How many were executed since 1921? How many public buildings were burned by the Free State troops to establish law and order when the R.I.C. were gone? Who shot Kemlin and Higgins last September? Was it R.I.C.? The Free State today is following the footsteps of England to maintain law and order in Ireland any more prosperous than in 1916? Has anybody yet got the interest from the Irish Republican bonds sold in Canada? Certainly not.

When Fate Stepped In

Kate Arundale stood on the platform of the small station looking after the departing train from which she had just alighted. What a fool she had been to leave civilization—the safe comfortable civilization to which she had been accustomed all her life—to come west to marry her brother's friend, Aaron Ward. For, after all, what did she really know about Aaron Ward save that he was her brother's friend and partner in the big ranch? And as for her brother Joe, he was almost a stranger, too. Joe had left home for the west when Kate was 16, and had only been home once since, and that was just year when he came west to help settle up their father's estate. Joe was 38 and had not married. While Aaron was 26, two years older than Kate.

Joe Arundale had been a teacher in an eastern college until he had developed some trouble with his lungs and had been advised by his physicians to seek the broad spaces of the western prairie. On the train going west Joe had fallen in with Aaron Ward and his mother, who were returning from the east where they had been to bury Aaron's father. A close friendship sprang up between the older man and the boy, and after Mrs. Ward's death, which occurred soon after, Joe bought a half interest in the ranch and the two men had lived together now for several years.

Through Joe's influence Aaron and Kate had carried on a correspondence which had resulted in Aaron's going east to see Kate. A mutual liking for each other had resulted from this visit, and thus had this trip of Kate's, which promised to end in marriage, or had until utter homesickness had overtaken her, and caused her to wish heartily she had not been so hasty in making this trip west. To add to her misery the train had been held up the night before and Kate had been obliged to give up her money and some precious keepsakes of jewelry which had belonged to her mother. Of course she had been no worse off than the other passengers had been, but the heartache added to the long day on the train and the recent parting with old friends in her home town had cast a shadow so deep that it seemed impossible for anything ever to lighten it.

As the train rushed on out of sight she turned, expecting, of course, to find either her brother or Aaron waiting for her. But there was no one except the tall station agent who stood gravely regarding her from under shaggy eyebrows.

"What is it?" he inquired in a friendly way.

Kate stared at him without understanding. He gave her a friendly smile and went on as if he were talking to himself. "There'll be a car along pretty soon. Joe told me you was coming. Like as not his pesky car had broke down. For myself I ain't got no use for cars, a horse always was and always will be safer to my notion. But come in, Don't stand out there trying to absorb all the sunshine. If you stay round here long you will find it can't be done."

About an hour later the station agent came back from a final look out over the prairie, and announced that "That car bus of Joe's was coming." And a moment later Joe drove his car alongside the station platform. He rushed in and caught his sister in his arms. The greeting on his part was all that might be expected from a man hungry for the sight of some of his own people. But with Kate it was different; she was more reserved, for she was clinging desperately to her determination to return east as soon as she could decently get away.

"I had to come alone, Kate," Joe said apologetically as they set forth. "The sheriff came for Aaron early this morning to go after cattle thieves. He had no choice in the matter but to go. We have been having altogether too much rustling round here lately, and the ranchmen got together last week and determined to put a stop to it. I don't know when they will be back from the raid."

They jotted on in silence for some miles, each busy with his own thoughts.

Suddenly Joe turned and looked at Kate and at the look of dumb misery in the girl's eyes he said:

"I know all about it, Kate. This is too big a chance for you. I—we should have known better than to ask it of you. Aaron is a good fellow and I am sure he will not hold you to any promise you have made. If you want to go back you shall go tomorrow. There is a train leaves here at noon. I will see that you make it."

It was as if he had read her mind! Kate stared at her brother almost with unbelief.

"You are kind, Joe," she murmured with trembling lips. "I'm sure no one could be kinder. Of course I am acting outrageously, but—but, Oh, I can't explain to you!"

"Don't try, Sister," Joe said. "Just let it all go. Try to rest all you can until I get you to a place where you can really rest."

Joe, though apparently absorbed in his driving, was in reality going over and over his disappointment and living in advance the heartache of Aaron when he had to tell the boy of Kate's decision.

Presently they came to the bank of a creek where cottonwoods grow. A swift turn brought a house in view, a long adobe building with cool looking porches and deep set windows peeping through vines.

"Why, Joe?" she stammered. "You never told me your home was anything like this! I had no idea—why, there are trees and flowers!"

"Adobe makes a mighty cool house," Joe answered, as he stopped the car and lifted his sister out. "But what does this mean?" he hastily added, as he caught sight of a long wagon to which were hitched a pair of mustangs which was tied to a tree in the yard.

Just then the door opened and a man came out of the house with his hat in his hand.

"He's been waiting for you, Joe," he said. "Thought you'd be getting back about now. We got in a brush with those rustlers down in Deep Canyon and Aaron stopped a bullet. He's pretty badly stopped up. We've sent for a doctor, but what he needs most (I) the doctor gets here is somebody who knows how to cleanse a wound and stop the bleeding. Needless to say we got the rustlers and the sheriff is taking them into town."

The next hour was one of the busiest of Kate's life. At sundown when the doctor came he found Aaron as comfortable as first aid could make him. He complimented Kate on her work and made no secret of the fact that had she not been on hand there would have been little use for his services.

A month later Aaron had so far recovered as to be practically out of danger, and Joe and he could do very well alone. Joe took Kate aside and told her that if she wanted to return east he would see that the way was provided for her.

"And leave Aaron and you?" asked Kate in astonishment. "Why, I wouldn't think of such a thing. Why, Joe, I love you and the ranch and—"

But she got no further because Joe took her in his arms and led her to where Aaron was sitting dejectedly in the shade of the big cottonwood. "Cheer up, lad," Joe said as Aaron looked up at their approach. "Kate has something to say which I think you will be glad to hear." Then he turned away and left the two alone together.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES AND HOW TO AVOID THEM

(Advice of a Red Cross Nurse)
Communicable diseases are what most people call "catching" diseases. Formerly they were called "contagious" or "infectious," but these names are being dropped. The name nurse who knows how communicable diseases are spread will be able to guard against them. The nurse is in a position to see that the other members of the family and the community. To prevent the spread of communicable disease is just as important a duty of the home nurse as is the care and comfort of the patient.

Each kind of communicable disease is caused by its own kind of germ. Disease germs are spread by the discharges of the nose, throat, bladder and bowels. These germ laden discharges may be carried to other persons directly from a spray from a cough or sneeze, foods, the common drinking cup, towels, unclean hands, etc., are all indirect causes for disease. Germs enter the body of another person through the mouth, nose, or rarely through breaks in the skin.

The three F's in the transfer of communicable diseases are Fingers, Food and Fingers.

The common house fly breeds in filth and may carry on its legs thousands of germs of disease. Keep the

Armored Tanks Play Relief Role in Storm Which Hits South England

London, Dec. 30.—Aeroplanes and armored tanks are playing relief roles in England's great storm—the fiercest blizzard in some parts that England has known in a score of years.

Bread and butter were dropped from the sky into Westernham and neighboring villages in Kent where inhabitants are snow-imprisoned. Two aeroplanes from an airbase, near London, carried supplies, but were unable to find a safe landing in the beleaguered towns. The food was placed in bags and dropped by parachutes.

Tanks from two army stations in Hampshire were employed to crush a pathway through the roads piled high with snow. For four days three villages, Gosmont, Llanvethorne and Llangatock, lying near the foot of the Black Mountain, Monmouthshire, have been isolated, and unless a thaw comes soon it is feared the villagers and cattle will suffer severe privation.

Floods are adding to the distress. They are widespread in the Ouse valley in Huntingdonshire, while the Thames floods, from Old Windsor to Walton, show little signs of subsiding.

Black tales of suffering in all the snow-buried counties of southern England and Wales were told in London last night, while weather experts are not yet able to foresee immediate relief from cold which has gripped Great Britain. It was viewed with alarm the increasing number of new varieties of wheat being grown in Western Canada, many with nothing but earliness of yield to recommend them; also that it was believed the growing of so many varieties would jeopardize the present high standard of Western Canadian wheat on the world's market. The resolution asks that the minister of agriculture should take such steps as to ensure the absolute uniformity of quality in Western Canadian market wheat.

That no seed grain or other seeds be sold as such if it contains any noxious weed seeds is the gist of a resolution from the Peace River Provincial Constituency Association.

The latter organization also asks that in view of the rapid development of the Peace River country, the construction of the Peace River outlet in the near future should be urged.

FORTY HURT IN A TRAIN ACCIDENT

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31.—Racing through a blinding snowstorm to make up lost time, Engineer John Vaness today drove his crack Chicago and Alton passenger train, "The Hammer," into the rear end of No. 73, a fast mail train from St. Louis, telegraphing four steel coaches and sending been received by Arthur Beauchance, clerk of the house of commons, to be taken up during the session which opens on January 26. The resolutions deal with a variety of matters. In the name of John Miller (Liberal-Progressive, Qu'Appelle) stands one which seeks the establishing of a system of wheat grading which will include protein content and will be applicable to all grades, provided that the innovation causes no delay in transit. The provision is asked that this shall not apply to cars which have reached their destination and are unloading.

E. J. Garland (Progressive, Bow River) asks for the establishment of a national research institute, to be undertaken by the dominion government.

Dr. T. E. Kaiser (Conservative, Ontario), has a resolution asking that the government take the necessary steps to utilize "our vast deposits of lignite and bituminous coal by converting them into crude oil and other commodities."

M. Bonlangier (Liberal, Bellechasse), requests "that the same treatment be accorded to Canadians as Europeans" with regard to settling on lands in the Canadian west.

T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto Northwest), and Dr. J. W. Edwards (Conservative, Frontenac), will bring up the matter of the natural resources of Alberta, requesting the government to return them to that province.

J. S. Woodworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre), asks for the establishing of a national system of banking. In the name of C. H. Cahan, K.C. (Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George), stands a notice of motion for a return showing the report of the Canadian members of the international railways commission of April, 1926, recommending the negotiation of a treaty with the United States respecting the international railways along the boundary between the United States and Canada and referring to the Chicago water diversion.

Mr. Verigin last night expressed his approval of all co-operative farm movements and intimated the possibility of his followers joining the wheat pool and other co-operative organizations in western Canada.

All the native arts and handicrafts in English would be carried on as at present. The teaching of the Russian language, he stated, would keep alive the native traditions so cherished by his followers.

Lieut. R. E. Page, R.N.V.R., C.C.I., now visiting Canada and the United States, is making teachers' tours to Great Britain via the popular St. Lawrence route. As master of the British mystery ship X 11 during the Great War he sunk U-boats in the Mediterranean and was made Cavaliere of the Crown of Italy. All United States teachers would be impressed by a visit to England, he declared to fellow travellers on disembarking from the Anchor-Drummond liner Letha recently. Will he meet the man who would purge U. S. literature of British influence?

NEWSPAPER LAWS

2. If any person orders, his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There Excerpts from Newspaper Law, printed for the benefit of any reader who may have mistaken ideas regarding same:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter directing the sender, does not answer the laws if the subscriber does not take the paper out of the post office and state the reason for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

3. Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he subscribes or not, is responsible for payment.

4. If a subscriber orders his paper stopped at a certain time and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post office. This follows the principle that a man must pay for what he uses.

Another Firm Out of Business---

Just one of the news items which are appearing in papers quite too often these days throughout the Dominion. And what is the reason. There is only one, and that is lack of loyalty to home institutions and the lure of the flashing publicity of the large city establishments. Many citizens, while earning their wages and salaries in one place, nevertheless send a large proportion of this money out of the community for questionable bargains, thus depriving such community of that much necessary working capital.

Business Men Do the Same

They have local firms who are able and ready to supply them with all their requirements, yet for the most trivial reason or excuse they will consent to extend this patronage to outside firms, thus helping to build up distant cities at the expense of their home town. They seem to forget that this money so sent out might otherwise have been largely returned to them by those with whom they should have left this business. Therefore, when in need of printed matter of any kind, whether farmer, business man or professional man, always extend first consideration to

Inquiries have been received during the past week by the department of agriculture from an importing firm in Kobe, Japan, for quotations on shipments of large quantities of Alberta wool. TIGHTWAD TOWN

(By Walt Mason)

In Tightwad town there is no growth; the people are exceeding loath to build a hencoop or a shed or anything that costs a red. Some old chaps still possess the dimes they first acquired in ancient times; to let a nickel get away would spoil for them a happy day. Oh, now and then some boosters rise with pep and courage in their eyes. "Let's pave the village streets," they say, "and have a modern great white way; let's show some signs of vim and snap, and put the old town on the map." But schemes like that will not go down in Tightwad town, old Tightwad town.

The tightwads cough with every word, and file their protests by the cord. "We now," they cry, "have jaded backs from bearing an unholly tax; and if we pave the streets by heck; our bank accounts will be a wreck. What if the mud's a furlong deep? What if the village cows and sheep are pastured on that thoroughfare? Our sainted fathers didn't care. Don't try to ring in modern follies, since we would have to pay the bills." So things look punk and tumble-down in Tightwad town, old Tightwad town. Old boosters weary of the fray and break their hearts and go away, and new ones come and try, to show the sad old village how to grow. And they in turn throw up their hands and chase themselves to other lands. For poor old Tightwad town is bent on never blowing in a cent; they hear of progress with a frown. In Tightwad town, old Tightwad town.

Coughed Continually Could Not Sleep

Mrs. Sam Duggan, Scarth, Man., writes:—"Last fall I had a very hard cough which became firmly lodged on my lungs. Your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was recommended to me and I started taking it."

"At that time I could not get any more than half an hour's sleep at a time for the continual coughing, but now, I very rarely ever cough."

"I have recommended 'Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup' to many others."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it; put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 50c a bottle, large family size 70c; put up only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

To meet the increased activity in aviation the Royal Canadian Air Force will be equipped with 26 new planes, according to information given out at Ottawa recently.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has decided to give the name Princess Elaine to the new vessel building in Scotland for the Vancouver-Nanaimo route, at a cost of $1,500,000.

To handle the heavy prospective movement of grain this year the Canadian Pacific Railway have opened the Transcanada yards at Winnipeg and the new double track between Molson and Whittier Junction.

Some idea of the increase in the volume of traffic through the port of Vancouver is given by the fact that during the past year exports from that port were valued at $14,000,000 as compared with $68,000,000 five years ago.

The winter carnival at Banff is to be held from February 4 to 11 this year, according to L. C. Orr, president of the Banff Winter Sports Association. Preparations are under way that give promise of a greater carnival than ever staged at this famous mountain resort.

An exceptional crop of blueberries has been gathered this season, according to the agent of the Canadian Pacific Express Company at Kenora, 324,707 pounds having passed through his office to date, and approximately 30,000 pounds being shipped over the lakes to the United States. The estimated total of the total shipment is placed at about $38,000.

The names of Nunnesser and Coll. who sought to fly the Atlantic but failed, will live forever in the place of honor in the Canadian Imperial survey, department of the Interior, has issued a new map of the gold bearing areas in the vicinity of Woman Narrows and Birch Lakes in northwestern Ontario. The names of these two aviators from France have been given to two lakes.

E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has announced in a telegram to H. R. Silver, president of the Lord Nelson Hotel Co., at Halifax, that the railway company has decided to sub-subs to the extent of $350,000 in financing the hotel. Canada's "Agricultural Jubilee" is to be celebrated this year according to an announcement made by the Hon. W. R. Brewster, minister of agriculture, who has taken the matter up with various provinces. It has been decided to hold the celebration in connection with the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, November 10 to 24 as the new building erected there jointly by the Dominion and Ontario Governments offer a splendid setting for this event.

In spite of the milk embargo Canada's exports of milk and cream to the United States have been well above the average this year according to Washington figures. The total exports of milk and cream, etc., for the latter show an increase of 34,000 gallons during the seven months' period January to July. The exact figures 1,047,798 gallons compared with 1,013,798 gallons in 1926 and 1,655,161 gallons in 1925.

SOMETIMES THEY DO HAPPEN

In the annals of newspaper work there are several colossal errors newspaper men cannot forget," states the Scranton Sun. "Some of them are humorous; some pathetic; all grievous."

"For instance: In New York a number of years ago a friend of many newspaper men on Park Row died. He was a shoemaker and his name was Adam Good. Unfortunately the story because of a typographical error, read: 'A dam Good shoemaker died.'"

"Then there is a story from St.

Louis in which a reporter was covering a political gathering. He wrote 'the shouts of 10,000 democrats rent the air, but somebody let it go through as the 'snouts' of that many democrats. 'We've heard another about a society reporter who described a bride's tresses from toe to top and likened her slippers to fairy boots,' but a humorously inclined printer made them 'ferry boats.'"

"There are many others."

CONSTANT READER
BESECHES EDITOR

Don't stop my paper, brother,
Don't strike my name off yet;
You know the times are stringent
And the dollars hard to get.
But tug a little harder
Is what I mean to do,
And scrape the dimes together—
Enough for me and you,
I can't afford to drop it.
I find it does not pay
To do without my paper
However others may.
I hate to ask my neighbor
To give me his or loan,
He doesn't say but means it,
"Why don't you buy your own?"
Then kindly keep it coming,
If pay is somewhat slow,
For cash is not so plenty,
But I must have my paper,
And wants not few, you know.
Cost what it may to me,
I'd rather dock my sugar
Or do without my tea,
So don't stop it, brother,
Unless you want my frown,
For here's the year's subscription,
Be sure you put it down,
And send my papers promptly
To Yours sincerely, John.

THINGS THAT ENDURE

Honor and truth and manhood—
These are the things that stand,
Through the sneer and jibe of the cynic tribe
Are loud through the width of the land.
The scouter may lord it an hour on earth,
And a lie may live for a day,
But truth and honor and manly worth
Are things that endure always
Courage and toll and service,
Old, but never new
These are the rock that abides the shock
And holds through the storm flint-true.

Fad and folly, the whims of an hour,
May bicker and rant and shrill;
But the living granite of truth will tower
Long after their rage is still.
Labor and love and virtue,
Time does not dim their glow;
Though the smart may say in their languid way
"Oh, we've outgrown all that you know."

But a lie whatever the guise it wears,
Is a lie, as it was of yore;
And a truth that has lasted a million years
Is good for a million more.

A European Tour

(By F. E. Kerr, B.A., Peterborough)

Early in the year, Mr. George H. King, the former organist of Trinity Church, wrote to me and asked me if I would join a party that he was organizing to make a tour through parts of England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium and France. The tour had certain features that appealed to me very much. The itinerary was satisfactory because it aimed to give good general impressions of the various countries visited; the cost was much less than that of most tours; the time required was not excessive as people can become very tired of sightseeing. Then, also, I believe in going with a party organized under the direction of some of the firms that specialize in conducting tours. We went under the auspices of the Pitman Tours Limited.

We sailed from Montreal in the forenoon of July first on the steamship Leifvick. The Montcalm sailed out just ahead of us. The two boats kept about the same distance apart down the river. The scenery along the St. Lawrence is very beautiful. A short time before dark, we passed under the Canadian National Railway bridge and all were interested in this great marvel of Canadian engineering. Quebec was passed and soon it was dark. Most of the people retired early as many of them had not had much sleep on the train the previous night.

After midnight an extraordinary episode happened.

Getting out a magazine is no picnic. If we print jokes, folks say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we publish all original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we publish things from other papers, we are too lazy to write.

If we stay on our job, we ought to be out rustling up news items.

If we don't print contributions, we don't show proper appreciation.

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

Like as not, some fellow will say we swiped even his from another magazine.

So we did!

THINK IT OVER!

Life's best things are often its commonest. The air, the light, the family, the Church, are of great value; yet possibly some of us overlook the fact because they are always with us.

Weddings

STANLEY-COTTRELL

The Anglican church at Millet was prettily decorated in evergreen for the marriage of Muriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cottrell of Larchtree, who became the bride of Frederick Charles Stanley on Tuesday evening, December 27th. Promptly at the hour the bride entered on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March played by Mrs. Stuart McIlhenny. She was a radiant picture in her lovely gown of white tulle with its daintily filled skirt, trimmings of rosebuds and shadowed under the beautiful bridal veil of embroidered net, worn cap shape and caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white and palest pink mums with sprays of green.

Her attendants were her two sisters Mrs. Groves as matron of honor, groomed in American beauty crepe de chine, and Miss Elsie as bridesmaid, wearing a dainty gown of rose pink headed gerorgette and carrying a bouquet of pink roses and hyacinths.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. Adams of Edmonton. During the signing of the register, Mr. Graham sang "Because," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. McIlhenny.

The impressive service was held in the presence of some forty of the immediate friends and guests of the contracting parties, and was followed by a reception in Pinyon's hall, brilliantly decorated for the occasion. The evening was spent in dancing.

A buffet luncheon was served, during which Rev. A. A. Adams proposed the toast to the bride and groom, Mr. Stanley responding. The guests at the reception numbered one hundred and seventy-five.

The many beautiful gifts testified to the popularity of these young people. After a short honeymoon spent in Edmonton Mr. and Mrs. Stanley have taken up their residence in the house until recently occupied by Mr. Schaefer.

PRAIRIE FARMERS

USING POOR SEED

Winnipeg, Dec. 31.—Interesting reports covering field crop problems have been dealt with at formal and round table conferences at the eighth annual meeting of the Western Canadian Society of Agronomy held here.

During the discussion reports on a seed drill survey carried on in the prairie provinces were presented, showing that approximately one-half of the seed used by farmers would grade rejected under the seeds act. In this survey some 2,500 samples were taken direct from drills.

BEARS HILL

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malmas, Sr., on Wednesday of last week, when Mrs. G. W. Malmas was the unsuspecting guest at a surprise party given in her honor, to celebrate her birthday.

The evening was spent in games and an old time sing-song, after which all were invited to partake of a dainty lunch, a feature of which was a large birthday cake aglow with candles.

On behalf of the guests, Miss Frodeen, with a few appropriate words, presented Mrs. Malmas with a beautiful gold-embossed salad bowl and servers, as a memento of the occasion.

The following card accompanied the gift: "Birthdays greetings, from Mr. and Mrs. Soderstrom, Vassburg Family, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Lundell and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. SEVERE COLD IN SOUTH

CAUSE OF MUCH SUFFERING

Lethbridge, Jan. 3.—With the bitter winter entering its third month with out a real blizzard or warm break the weather situation is giving increasing concern. Old-timers declare that not in 40 years have they seen such a continuous period of sub-zero weather. In addition to temperatures that have dropped all the way from 25 to 35 below zero there has been a heavy snow fall, the accumulation of snow soon becoming incalculable. This has prevented cattle, sheep and horses from obtaining feed and with the opening of January range conditions are grave. Stock is getting thin, feed supplies low, and unless there is a break soon heavy losses are feared. Already stockmen have fed as much as they do ordinarily in a whole winter and two months of winter at least lie ahead. Wild life is also increasing and displaying extraordinary tameness. Coyotes are roaming the range country in packs and a timber wolf on the Blood Indian reserve has been making inroads on young stock. Thousands of jack rabbits are devouring grain in the stock, and bands of antelope, driven into the outskirts of towns and villages by hunger are breaking through into un-threshold fields.

FIRST UNITED CHURCH NOTES

Rev. Bridgeman of Saskatoon, brother of Mr. W. E. Bridgeman, assisted the minister and preached on Sunday evening, January 1st. His sermon, based on the text "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever," was a most inspiring New Year's message, clothed in beautiful language, and depicted clearly the course of wisdom which wise men will follow.

Special services are being held under different departments of the church, each evening, at 8 o'clock.

Thursday night (tonight) emphasis will be laid on the service of prayer and will be in charge of the senior choir. Friday the minister will be in charge and will emphasize the entire congregation of life and the place for church membership.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.
